BLACK SILKS. TALKING ATPARK AND CAMP

Sunday-School Workers and Lecturers Address the Audiences at Bethany.

Acton Services Drawing to a Close, with Many Conversions Reported-Chautauqua Exercises to Complete a Successful Season.

BETHANY PARK. Talks on Sunday-Schools and Lectures on Buddhism. Yesterday the work of the Indiana Sunday-school Association was begun at Bethany Park. But before this occurred the day began with the usual 6:30 A. M. prayermeeting, led by C. J. Saunders, of Burlington, Ia. After that, but later in the forenoon, there was a continuation of the talks on the Roman Letter, led by Love H. Jameson. In the interval between the conference on Romans and the usual assembly lecture, at 11 o'clock, the association named began its session. Miss Ida E. Anderson, of Indianapolis, State superintendent of the primary work, made some remarks on the importance of this kind of instruction in the Sunday-school. She said that the primary teacher has a call from God, as is indicated in the Scriptures. The children need care fully as much as do the older per-

Following this session came the lecture of Rev. A. M. Jefferson, of Kokomo, on "Buddhism." It is, he said, one of the most powerful and most nearly impregnable of all religions. Especially is this true in China, and in a modified form in Japan, India and Siam. It is even present in England and America. Its missionaries have been sent to Australia and California, and it is being propagated by modern literature, and is found in new-fangled religion. Buddha was of royal descent, and was born at Kapilivasta, 100 miles north of Benares. From his early years he was constantly meditating on human life, and especially its pain and dissatisfaction. To divert his attention from this line of thought he was attention from this line of thought he was married to an Indian princess. But though his married life was But though his married life was in every way a happy one, everything he saw constantly made him realize the hollowness and unrealness of life. Finally he determined to give himself up to the life of an anchorite. He put himself under Brahmins, but he became able of himself to overthrow their theory of heaven, and also the idea that virtue consists in asceticism. He then turned to his meditations to work out the problem of human life. He withdrew to the wilderness and meditated for six years. Here he determined to abandon the practice of asceticism. Soon after this came his celebrated experience under the fig tree, called asceticism. Soon after this came his celebrated experience under the fig tree, called "The Tree of Wisdom." He said nothing preserved the abiding condition of being, and the only way to escape suffering was to pass out of existence. The only salvation for man was annihilation. The two fundamental thoughts of Buddhism are: The materiality of all existence in this and all other worlds, and the transmigration of souls. With these ideas Buddha undertook to solve the problem of life and of sorrow in particular. He said that all being is necessarily sorrowful; that living is sorrow. sarily sorrowful; that living is sorrow. What is this, said the lecturer, but nine-teenth century pessimism? What is it other than the philosophy of Schopenhauer, Hartmann, and Tolstoi? How different is Hartmann, and Tolstoi? How different is the gloomy doctrine of sorrow from the religion of Christ. Buddha said the only way to get rid of sin is to get rid of existence; true philosophy says the only way to get rid of sorrow is to get rid of sin. Buddha utterly failed in his religion of despair, but Christ's religion is one of joy. It proposes to lift up the whole human race and purify it unto salvation.

At 1:30 P. M. the Sunday-school Association met and heard the report of Rev. L. L. Carpenter, State Sunday-school evangelist. He reported the following: Number of counties visited, 34; number of places visited, 61, number of Sunday-school conventions attended, 9; number of Sunday-school institutes conducted, 11; number of Sunday-school institutes conducted, 11; number of Sunday-school normals conducted, 22; num-Sunday-school normals conducted, 32; num-Sunday-school normals conducted, 32; number of Sunday-schools organized, 23; new churches organized, 3; total number added to the church, 214. He reported as collections, $14,234.29, and also gave a discussion on future work and its needs. Following this the Rev. J. E. Gilbert, of Indianapolis, spoke on "The Rise and Progress of Sunday-school Work and its Influence on the Policions, Work," He said: When all to the church, 24. He feliphoted as concertions, $14,234.29, and also gave a discussion on future work and its needs. Following this the Rev. J. E. Gilbert, of Indianapolis, spoke on "The Rise and Progress of Sunday-school Work and its Influence on the Religious Work." He said: When all the members of the different churches work together then can the church rejoice in there being a united Protestantism. The unity of this comes from the common love of all for Christ. This unity is the result of Sunday-school labor. The school has taken the Bible and given it to the laity through instruction to children. It has given the people a Bible, not in their hands, but in their hearts. One may distribute Bibles all through the land, but unless it is given in this way it will not avail. The more the laity are brought to think on these things the less will be ecclesiastical distinction.

The Sunday-school work has laid deen in the property of the sunday-school work has laid the pr the less will be ecclesiastical distinction. The Sunday-school work has laid deep in the heart of the church the desire to be the heart of the church the desire to be and to do the utmost for the Master. Once the ordinary conception of the Christian was merely to be saved; now it is to save some one else also. The Sunday-school has brought the parts of the church together, brought about a greater study of the Bible, and awakened the church to the importance of taking care of the training of the children. The two should be done by the best and most thoroughly-trained men and women of the church.

In the evening A. J. Frank, of Danville.

In the evening A. J. Frank, of Danville, president of the association, delivered an To-day the work will be continued. The regular assembly lecture this morning will be on "The Perils and Possibilities of the Disciples." by Rev. B. B. Tyler, of New York. At 2:30 P. M., D. R. Lucas will speak on the "Influence of Sunday-school Work in Promoting Christian Union." The dis-cussion of this address will be led by Hugh

H. Miller, of Nineveh. At 8 o'clock P. M., S. M. Jefferson is to deliver an address on "The Sunday-school as an Evangelizing Force," To-morrow will begin the work of the Christian Woman's Board of Missions. At 10 o'clock, M. L. Streator is to deliver an address on "Montana and Her Needs," and at 11 o'clock Mr. Persis L. Christian, of Illi-nois, will speak on "Christ or Belial, a Fragment of History." At 8 P. M. "The West" will be the topic of Lieutenaut-governor Chase, of Danville.

CAMP ACTON. The Long Series of Successful Meeting

Nearing Its Close. To-day is the last of the Acton campmeeting. It was the purpose at first to hold over to-morrow, but circumstances rendered it necessary to close to-day. Thursday all the cottagers will be moving, and many have already left for their homes. The chief interest yesterday centered in the work of the W. M. F. A. The Murphy meetings furnished occasion for much talk, but now that that matter is definitely settled, the people are ready to get home. The first exercise of the day was a Bible reading, given by Dr. J. H. Ford. A large number participated in the speaking meet-ing which followed. At 10 A. M. Dr. Creigh-ton preached on the subject of "Holiness." The latter part of the sermon was taken up with an account of the Doctor's own conversion. At the altar service there were a number of conversions. At 1:30 P. M. a meeting of all the tentholders was held in the tabernacle. On behalf of the board of trustees, Mr. Conner reported that the outstanding claims ex-ceeded the amount collectable by $300. After an hour's work, the entire deficit was made good by subscriptions and cash deposits. Immediately thereafter the Woman's Home Missionary Society was addressed by Rev. Dr. Iliff, of Salt Lake City. He confined himself particularly to the work in Utah. He said that the light is breakyears missionaries in that Territory all of the colored population to be in here Charles E. Kerner... 73

Those marked with a star passed their examination last February, and as to eligibility of appointment have preference over all others. Their eligibility, however, will cease next February. The above lists also comprise all those entitled to appointment under the recent examination.

Years missionaries in that Territory have had to struggle, and just now they are beginning to get a firm standing. Utah has been the most obstinate of all places in the mission field. There are three reasons for this—the first being the isolation of the people; the second, their character, and third, the peculiar organization of the Mormon Church. On this last point he said that this system of church government is compact and impregnable.

New sideboards at Wm. L. Elder's.

He spoke of the Edmund's law and of its satisfactory working. He gave a detailed and humorous account of the arrest and trial of George Q. Cannon and other Mor-mon leaders. The Methodist Church is growing in the Territory and its members are being increased every day.

At the close of the address a collection was taken up for the benefit of the work, was taken up for the benefit of the work, and $31 secured in cash and pledges.

At 4:30, Professor Hudson conducted the young people's meeting. As it was the last of its kind for this year, a large crowd was present. Doctor Hiff preached at night from John xii, 24. "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abidieth alone; but if it die it bringeth forth much fruit." The central thought of the text, he said, is "life out of death." If death is in providential order, every higher state results from death. Christ is the sublime example, though the text is illustrated in every form of animal and illustrated in every form of animal and vegetable life. The science of to-day, he said, must die to make way for the better said, must die to make way for the better knowledge of to-morrow.

To-day, the Chautauqua programme will include the lecture of Dr. Creighton, "The Devil." At 2 p. m. Dr. M. M. Parkhurst is expected to lecture. If he is not present, Dr. Creighton will give a half-hour talk on some appropriate subject. The presentation of diplomas to the eleven graduates will occur immediately after the lecture. At 5 p. m. there will be a vesper service, after which will be given a banquet to all who are, have been or expect to be students in the course. In other exerbe students in the course. In other exercises the Misses Dole and Levering will give talks on home missions, followed by testimonies from those present. Dr. Creighton will preach at 7:45 p. M., and after that there will be a jubilee service and a procession around the grounds. cession around the grounds.

TRYING THE ELIXIR.

A Chicago Gentleman Came Here for Treatment and Has Hopes of Recovery.

Dr. Purman, of this city, is experimenting with the somewhat famous elixir upon a guest at the Bates House. The first applications were made yesterday with results, which, at the time, seemed favorable. The patient is W. J. Mordon, general manager of the Mordon Frog and Crossingworks, of Chicago. He, with his wife, child and servant, arrived in the city yesterday morning and was driven hotel at once. a Journal reporter was presented to him last night. He was reclining on a bed, and apparently in a helpless condition physically.
"Do you object to the public knowing of your object in coming to Indianapolis?" the

"Why, not in the least," he replied. "I had only one object, and that was to have Dr. Purman try his 'elixir' upon me. You can see by my condition that I am not here for business. "How long have you been in this con-"I received a stroke of paralysis eight mouths ago the 16th of this mouth, and since that time I have kept my bed in Chicago. My entire left side was paralyzed and helpless. Oh, I could walk a few steps and helpless. Oh, I could walk a few steps by having some one on each side to support me, but I was worth absolutely nothing."

"Could your physicians not help you any?"
"No, they tried everything. I have had seven physicians at my side at different times, and they have all failed to give me any comfort. I have, in fact, tried every remedy you could think of. For the last two months I have been under the treatment of a magnetic doctor but like the two months I have been under the treatment of a magnetic doctor, but, like the rest, his efforts to relieve me were all in vain. I read in your Indianapolis dailies of Dr. Purman's experiments in the new theory of life, and I was almost induced to try it. For the last year and a half I have been gradually breaking down physically, which was, in the main, due to over-work. The stroke of paralysis was brought on, I think, by my confining myself too closely to my office, and when at last I was bedridden I was so discouraged that I was willing to resort to any remedy that seemed likely to cure. As I say, I saw the accounts of Dr. Purman's work, and I concluded to try him. Chicago has no physician who has made experiments in the 'elixir,' and so I came here."

"Did your physicians oppose your coming!"

"Oppose it? Why they just hooted at the idea of my coming, 'It's all bosh,' they said, 'you had better stay at home and not try any such absurd experiments.' But I was resolved to make the attempt and I did. Dr. Purman made two injection at 3 o'clock this afternoon, one in each arm."

lieve it will cure me if anything will." Dr. Purman will make two more injections this morning. Mr. Mordon insists that he will remain in Indianapolis until he is satisfied with the new remedy, and expresses every possible hope in its being the means of his recovery.

Dr. Fletcher's Tests.

Dr. W. B. Fletcher is experimenting with the lambelixir. He is now making an effort to invent some method to preserve the fluid to be injected, as it is expensive to kill a lamb every time an experiment is made, and, besides, male lambs are becoming scarce and difficult to get. One lamb furnishes enough of the fluid to treat thirty or forty persons, but it is now nearly all lost because there is no method of preserving it. The Doctor says he is using the treatment in cases of nervous prostration and general debility from old age, and that he observed that it brought a feeling of comfort, improved eyesight and locomotion. In one case the Doctor said he had used it upon a patient afflicted with St. Vitus's dance, but had not met with success. Dr. F. C. Woodburn, of the City Dispensary, tried the elixir in a case of paralysis and in two cases of locomotor ataxia with little effect. He believes the effects to be temporary and that it will have to be injected every four or five days and not every five weeks, as Dr. Hammond has said.

Building Permits. Building permits were procured yesterday by J. W. Lamb, repairs, No. 324 East South street, $150; Clara B. Nicoli, frame house. Park avenue, near Eleventh street, $2,500: M. E. Bundy, frame cottage, Peru street, near Seventh; $1,000; Jacob Frefz, frame cottage, Hubbard's subdivision, $500; James G. Busch, frame cottage, Yeiser street near Busch, frame cottage, Yeiser street, near East, $800; H. Altman, addition, south Meridian street, $250.

Mr. Magee's Visit.

Hon. Rufus Magee, of Logansport, was at the Bates House yesterday. A portion of the time he spent in conversation with Senator Voorhees. Whether or not he was calling the Senator to task for his recent effort at Bloomfield, the reporter could not ascertain. Mr. Magee was minister to Norway and Sweden under the last administration, and he made an enviable reputation as the representative of American ideas.

Expects a Large Crowd.

The trial of the members of the Mount Zion colored Baptist congregation, against whom charges have been preferred relative to the recent church disturbance, will occur at 9 o'clock this morning in 'Squire Judkins's court. "We had to delay mat-ters somewhat," said the 'Squire, yester-

PREPARING FOR THE EVENT

A Great Throng of Veterans and Others Expected Here on Corner-Stone Day.

It Is Proposed to Bring Visitors to the City a Day or Two Before the Ceremonies-Chief Marshal Zollinger's Second Order.

From all parts of the State information is coming which leads to the conclusion that the laying of the corner-stone will bring people here in such numbers as to astonish the residents here, notwithstanding their familiarity with great throngs. There is no trouble about accommodating them with food and lodging after they get here, but the railroads will undoubtedly be hard pushed to furnish transportation, and the Monument Commissioners suggest that it would be well to have the travel distributed over three days, instead of being concentrated on the 22d. This would relieve the pressure on the railroads and make it much more agreeable to all. Indianapolis is a pleasant place in which to spend three days if one is not able to remain a lifetime, which, of course, is still more enjoyable, but is a blessing that every one can not re-

Mrs. Seguin-Wallace has a more than national reputation as a singer, and having retired from the tice of her profession, it was only a great historical event that induced her to volun-teer her services. Miss Kate Hammond, of Greencastle, who has just returned from the Boston Music Academy, will also sing. Two large platforms will be erected within Circle Park and attached to the scaffolding, one of which will be for speakers and distinguished guests and the other ers and distinguished guests and the other for local reporters and those from abroad. BOOM-M-M.

The first shot of the Fall Dress Goods Sesson and it is the foudest one we shall fire from now until Christmas. To-day we place on sale a full line of colored Henrietts Cloths, in fine all-wool quality, worth fully 75c a yard, price only 35c. They are full 40 inches wide. We repeat it that they are worth 75c. They would be cheap enough at 75c. Hundreds of thousands of yards of just such goods will be retailed in Indiana this fall at 75c. Therefore we declare they are actually worth 75c. Remember there is an end to almost everything except wedding rings and there will be an end to this lot of goods.

Silks suitable for trimming these goods are worth a dollar a yard, but we shall make the price only 50 cents a yard. They are the handsomest trimming silks we have seen this year, but to advertise the fact that we are at the old stand and actively ready for business we give the price this merciless slash. And in order that all the business shall not be done at our Dress Goods and Silk Counters we shall offer all the Calicoes in our store at only 4 3-4c a yard. We have never, to our knowledge, offered any cheap prints since we have been in business. All the prints we now offer are the best that money will buy—Arnold's Blues, Simpson's Blacks, Cocheco Fancies, etc. Quantity to each customer limited to 12 yards. tity to each customer limited to 12 yards. Mail orders inclosing price of goods will be filled ac-cording to our best judgment. Come very early and avoid the crowd.
